

La Jolla Playhouse Names Mike Lew and Rehana Lew Mirza 2018 Artists-in-Residence

La Jolla, CA – La Jolla Playhouse announces that married playwrights Mike Lew and Rehana Lew Mirza have been named the Playhouse's newest Artists-in-Residence beginning in April, 2018. During their residency, they plan to continue work on their Playhouse-commissioned trilogy: The Colonialism Project, as well as a new musical, Bhangin' It.

"The Artist-in-Residence program reinforces the Playhouse's mission to serve as a supportive and profound home for artists," said Playhouse Artistic Director Christopher Ashley. "Mike and Rehana both possess riveting new voices in the theatre, and it is deeply gratifying to be able to offer them this joint residency to develop new projects together and immerse themselves in the day-to-day operations of the Playhouse."

A co-commission from La Jolla Playhouse, The Colonialism Project is an ambitious time-spanning trilogy about colonialism and its aftermath. Through three interconnected full-length plays that together comprise an epic evening of theater, this work seeks to trace the scars of colonialism across nations and centuries, from British Raj in India, to plantation labor in the Caribbean, to the ripple effects of colonialism in America today. One of the plays in the trilogy, Child of Colonialism, had its first reading as part of the Playhouse's DNA New Work Series in 2017.

Bhangin' It, featuring a book by Rehana Lew Mirza and Mike Lew with music and lyrics by Sam Willmott, draws inspiration from the high-stakes world of intercollegiate competitive bhangra – a traditional Indian folk dance morphed into a good ole American dance-off. The story follows a biracial student, Mary, who gets kicked off her bhangra team for not being "Indian enough." When she forms a team of her own, cultural authenticity and cultural pluralism are set on a collision course in this brash, intoxicating and gripping new musical.

This multi-month artist residency program is designed to give artists the freedom to focus on their ongoing body of work, while becoming fully immersed in all aspects of the institution, from the stage to the boardroom to the classroom. Previous appointees have included Tony Award-winning actor and writer BD Wong (Playhouse's Herringbone, The Orphan of Zhao, playwright/director for POP Tour production of Alice Chan), acclaimed scenic designer and UC San Diego graduate and current faculty member Robert Brill (Playhouse's SUMMER: The Donna Summer Musical, Yoshimi Battles the Pink Robots, The Wiz, among many others) and MacArthur "genius" Grant recipient Basil Twist (Playhouse's A Midsummer Night's Dream, Dogugaeshi, WOW Festival productions of Seafoam Sleepwalk and Faetopia).
