TURNING TO RAINBOWS

By Will Power

A short play for young audiences and families
commissioned by La Jolla Playhouse
BABY

Momma, are you ok?

MOMMA

Yes baby.

BABY

You want my bear?

MOMMA

No baby, I’m fine. I just feel....

BABY

Like what?

MOMMA

What?

BABY

You feel like what?

MOMMA

I Feel like an ocean, without the Moon
I look like
My morning face, but it’s the afternoon.
I sound like a badger must sound
When she loses her badge
Or when you hear something happy
And you’re still sad.

Or when you eat your favorite food-
BABY
I like pizza, with veggie sausage.

MOMMA
Like eating pizza with veggie sausage
And it doesn’t give you the same feeling
Your belly is full, but without the good feelings
You usually get. You understand?

BABY
Momma if you feel bad, I know what we could do. Momma, Momma look, hold my hand.

(They hold hands).

BABY
Now let’s turn into rainbows.

(They turn into rainbows).

MOMMA
This feels funny.

BABY
It does.

MOMMA
I’ve never been a rainbow before. I don’t think we can stay like this. People might feel funny about it, funny in a bad way.

BABY
Who cares what people say, as long as we feel good.

Momma, we’re going to get through this time.
You’ll get a job again, and it’ll be a better one, one without headaches and bad fumes, you always said you hated that anyway.
BABY
And you’ll feel good
Like hot chocolate
When it meets marshmallow

MOMMA
And you’ll stay sunny
Like a dress that’s yellow.

BABY
And you’ll be protected
Like a Arma
Discovering her dillo

MOMMA
And you’ll be peaceful
Strong
And soft
Like a pillow

Baby, I don’t know when we’ll be eating veggie pizza again.

BABY
That’s ok momma, lets breathe and do yoga.

MOMMA
But how can we do that if we’re rainbows?

BABY
We should turn back. But let’s keep the rainbows on the inside.
(They turn back, but keep the rainbows on the inside).

BABY
Are you ok Momma?
MOMMA

Yeah. Yeah I’m doing just fine.
